2. But I'm the one who held my tongue
I never knew quite what to say
I figured you were doing fine
I thought I'd stay out of your way
But silence is a barbed wire kiss
My lips are bleeding red
So I open my mouth it's time I say
Those words I never said

So I'll raise my voice clear and loud
It's time I stood up it's time I spoke out
Against the silence and fear around
And for your love that's true

So we'll raise our voices clear and loud
We'll sing for your courage we'll keep singing out
And speak up for you, gay and proud
We'll sing for your love that's true
And for the pow-er of lov-ing you
